

ESSENTIAL COMMUNICATION DECISION TREE

To solve your toughest problem, change the problem you solve.

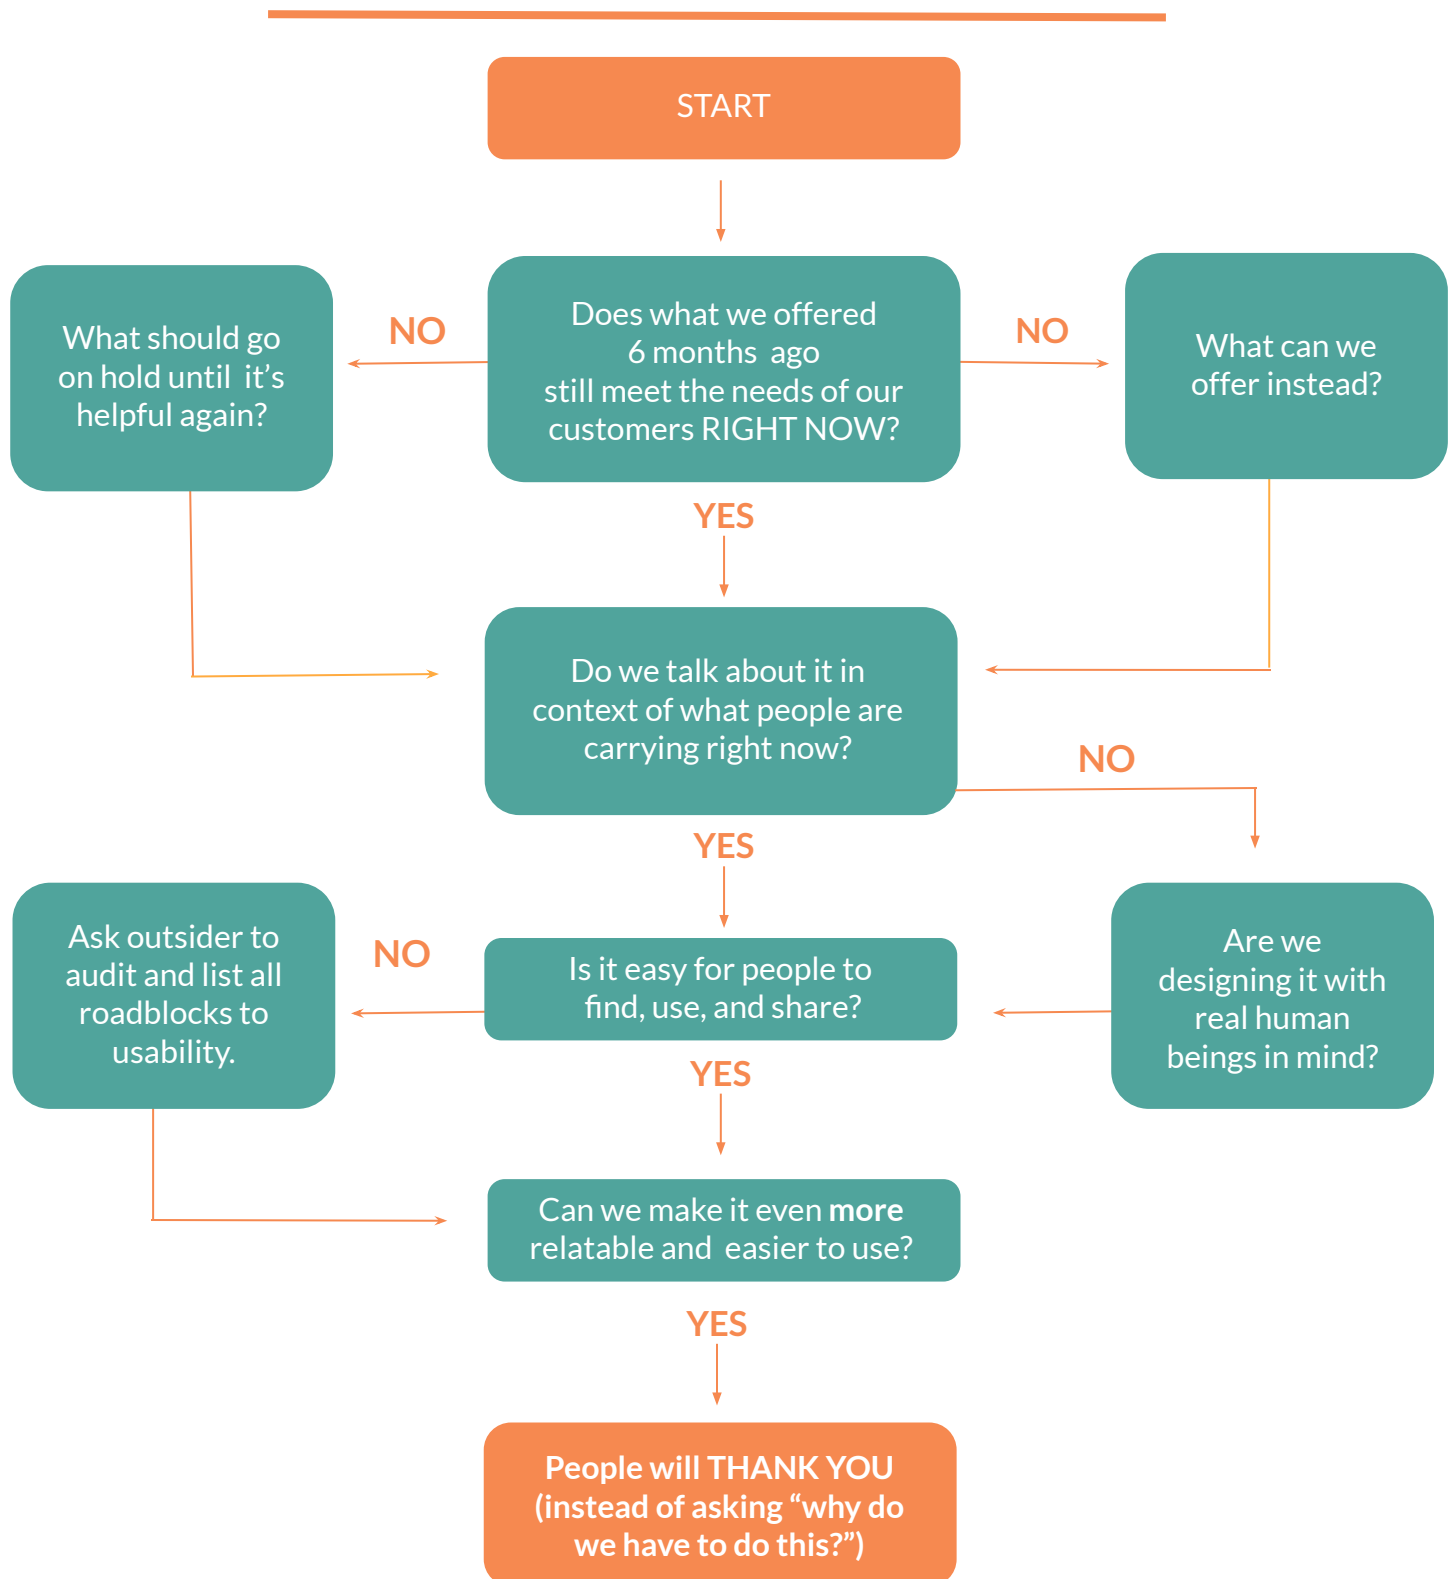

In a non-stop drive to create, grow, innovate, automate, engage, meet cultural demand, react to crisis, and adapt to new threats — your people (internal and external) are burning out and tuning out.

All the extra hours, resources, activity, and output isn't getting anyone closer to the outcome you want. Instead, your organization is moving farther and farther away from meeting the real needs of the people you're working so hard to serve.

The solution isn't found in the "how to" but the "so what." Adjust your plan and simplify your scope to bring your people and projects together.

Use this framework to ask the right questions, in the right order, for the right people.
